

Cost-Benefit Chart

Assessing Your Readiness for Healthy Change

A good method for helping you get started with making a healthy change is to create a cost-benefit chart. On the left side of the chart, list the costs, or the negative outcomes, associated with engaging in the new behavior. On the right side of the chart, list the benefits, or the positive outcomes, that will result from engaging in your new behavior.

My new healthy behavior: _____

Costs/Negative Outcomes of Making the Change	Benefits/Positive Outcomes of Making the Change

Are the benefits of making the change more important to you than the costs of making the change? If yes, then you are ready to take the next step. Use the outcomes most important to you to help keep you motivated and on track while making the change.

Adapted from MHN

www.hnfs.com

TRICARE is a registered trademark of the Department of Defense, Defense Health Agency. All rights reserved. PF0212x074 (03/16)

